To prove the point, we are building one of the first carbon neutral homes in the region—in the heart of McLean, Virginia. The home features a walkable location, super efficient design and construction, and renewable energy systems—which all add up to living better with a smaller impact on the planet. And we invite you to tour the house in October as we partner with CharityWorks and the region's leading interior designers to showcase just how desirable a sustainable lifestyle really can be.
